Make Movie Bookings for specific accounts

The credit card is automatically checked if it is real when the user is registering. This is done with the Luhn algorithm

The system will display a message automatically showing their username in a welcome message.

Booking, movies, and users are made so each registration in each is given a unique id to distinguish between any entries.

There are popups for multiple different errors that the user can see like an error with their credit card number, if the user isn't logged in they will get a error, if the user is logged in and makes a booking they will get a success message
